INTRODUCTION

Methodist History, the quarterly historical journal of The United Methodist Church, began publication in October, 1962. The founding editor was the notable Methodist historian, Elmer T. Clark.

According to Clark a Methodist historical journal was under consideration for more than twenty years before the first issue appeared. It was intended to be "popular in nature but with scholarly articles also, and will cover World Methodism but with special emphasis on the United States...."

Four times each year since the first issue was published Methodist History has appeared with articles, book reviews, news items, and information about original source materials. It is altogether fitting that during the Bicentennial of American Methodism this twenty-year Index should appear.

Special recognition is hereby paid to Richard A. Seiber and Louise L. Queen for their work in producing this Index. Seiber, President of the Western Jurisdiction Commission on Archives and History, and a group of volunteers did much of the organizational work. Queen, whose talents have been visible in the publication of Methodist History from its origin and who presently serves as its Managing Editor, also assisted in the organization of the Index and prepared it for publication.

We publish it with the hope that it will be useful to scholars and others who will benefit from it.
